WINNIPEG, Oct. 25th.

Davey the Regina eloper was discharged. It is believed the Bear cannot live many days. Francis Kelly was killed yesterday at Lisiole. Thomas Francis was killed at Lanark yesterday. The new Canadian bonds are well received in London. A Detroit Scotchman died from joy on receiving $100,000. Chinese generals are to lose their heads for execution. A Montreal dentist is being sued for injuring a patient's jaw. Rev. Jas. Settee a Manitoba missionary was fleeced in Chicago. Michigan lumber men want Canada to remove the duty on boards. Pat Tobin an Ottawa sport, was found dead in a drug store there. In two months 154 cases of typhoid fever were reported in Winnipeg. James H. Crowther a Toronto crook was shot in the act of burglary. Indian Queen won the Cambridge stakes; Gangway second and Collesbrance third. Grand Trunk Railway receipts are $10,958.74 as compared with $1,800,119 for last year. Grand Duke George, the Czar's second son, has given up his claim to the throne. The Danish schooner Helen was destroyed at sea by a gun powder explosion. The crew perished. Foster, government accountant, has been appointed warden of New Westminister penitentiary. All railways in the Western States are uniting to fight the C. P. R. in immigrant carrying business. The London Financial News says Sir Henry Tyler's retirement from the G. E. R., would boom that company's stock. Canada's customs revenues for July, August and September were $1,150,000 less than in the same period last year.

The Columbia House is closed.

Trains left Calgary two hours and twenty minutes late.

J. HOWEY, brother of W. R. Howey, has returned to Brandon.

The Masonic order here contemplate organizing a lodge of the Eastern Star at Edmonton in the near future. This society permits among its members, Master Masons their mothers, wives, sisters or widows. The order was first established by R. Morris an American poet.

F. B. BRUNGARDT and Franz Brungardt, who visited Edmonton in September as a delegation from the German settlement at Victoria, Kansas, and who were exceedingly well pleased with what they saw of the productiveness of the soil and general characteristics of the country, returned with the heads of seven families on Monday's train to look for land. It is their intention to locate in the Beaver Hill district.

The church of St. Antony de Padoue, South Edmonton was formally dedicated by His Lordship Bishop Grandin, accompanied by Rev. Fathers Leduc, Lacombe and Dauphin on Sunday. The little church is nicely finished and the altar was prettily decorated for the occasion. Singing was conducted by Father Dauphin, assisted by S. Larue, Mr. Fairbanks and the ladies. A sermon from the text "This is the house of God. My house is the house of prayer" was delivered in French and English by Rev. Father Leduc. At the close of the ceremony dinner was served at M. Duggan's.

The case of Salvation Army vs. Morley was tried before Mayor McCauley on Tuesday. This was a case of disturbing religious services, the disturbance consisting of singing out of harmony with the congregation in a manner that was annoying to the worshippers. Some of the witnesses swore that they were obliged to leave the meeting on account of the inharmonious noises made by the defendant, while others swore that his singing was not disagreeable to them. The weight of evidence seemed to prove that Mr. Morley's voice was not melodious upon this occasion, and the mayor therefore imposed a fine of one dollar, disallowing all witness fees.

The photographs taken by Geo. Parches and Harry Anthony while on their recent trip to the Rockies, are being developed by Mr. C. W. Mathers. Illustration 1 is a view of Roche Myette, a large rock, high up on the mountains at the entrance to the Jasper pass. This rock is named after an Indian who climbed up on to it, hung his legs over it and lighted his pipe. No man, before or since has accomplished this feat though many have tried. No. 2 is a view of the summit of the Rockies from the Myette river, taken from, what the party named, Owl flat, close to the Mammoth lead discovered by Harry Anthony and Dan Noyes last spring. No. 3 is a view across the Myette river at Red Earth creek, and shows jagged points near the Columbia river. View 4 is similar, only it shows the points more distinctly. The 5th view is taken from across Stony river from the Jasper House and shows the ranges where the big horn sheep run. Several photos were taken by Harry Anthony when he went on his trip to the Tete Jaune Cache.

A MOVEMENT is on foot to organize a mock parliament for the winter months, and a meeting for that purpose will be held on Tuesday night in the council chamber.

The central telephone office is being moved to rooms over the post office and telephone communication will be suspended on Saturday while connections are being made.

A SOCIAL evening was spent by the members and friends of the Christian Endeavor society of the Presbyterian church at J. A. McDougall's residence last Tuesday evening. Games, singing and instrumental music constituted the evening's enjoyment.

A RANGE of stone from the quarry about sixty miles up the river, arrived yesterday and is being hewed out to-day for the front of the new Jacques Cartier bank. This stone is a grey sandstone, works freely, is of good quality and nice appearance, almost exactly similar to the Calgary sandstone.

DR. MCINNIS and Frank Hardisty returned from their shooting trip to Island lake last night after an absence of two weeks, one of which was spent in returning from Beaver Lake here. In the two days shooting they had there, they shot four swans weighing about 19lbs. each, twenty-five wags, sixty ducks and eighty-five chickens. They saw no geese.

WM. STEPHEN, who has been mining on the Saskatchewan, about twenty-five miles below Victoria, returned to town this morning with a small pouchful of gold amalgam worth about $126, the result of about two weeks washing, himself and boy. Mr. Stephen has been mining since last May, and was only stopped for two weeks in June by high water. During this time he has made from $2 50 to $3 per day, he and his boy averaging a little over $5. The season is not yet closed; but on account of high water many of the miners are leaving the bars. Some purpose staying all fall and wintering at St. Paul mission. In winter they will wheel out earth from the banks on to the ice, and in the early spring, before the river breaks up, will, by means of a hole in the ice, resume operations on warm days.

The amount of gold amalgam purchased from miners by the Edmonton branch of the Imperial bank, has so far amounted to $11,200 for the present season. This is about $500 more than was purchased in the same time last year. This does not represent the amount of gold mined in the Saskatchewan at this point as much of it finds its way to market through other channels than the bank. The season has not yet closed and miners at distant points will yet have a few hundred dollars worth to dispose of. Considering that the river was higher this year than last and the season consequently shorter, it is difficult to account for the increase unless it is that more men have engaged in mining or that more gold was sent away to be sold in former years.

SUNDAY last was a red letter day for the parish of St. Joachim's, Edmonton. His Lordship, Bishop V. Grandin was there on a special visit, the occasion being the blessing of the bell that His Lordship has so liberally given to the congregation. At 3 o'clock p. m., the provisory church was crowded by the parishioners to witness the ceremony. Appropriate hymns were sung, after which the bishop gave a few explanatory words in French relative to the ceremony about to be performed. Rev. Father Leduc then delivered an able and forcible address in English in which he said that a bell is a voice and messenger for the parish. It is a messenger of joy and of mourning; of joy announcing the good tidings of the birth of citizens, after baptism, of rejoicing after the happy marriage; but of mourning when telling to the world the departure of our fellow men from this earth. After the performance of the blessing, the bishop and the clergy rang the bell, followed by the sponsors and the congregation. The offerings amounted to $70. Rev. Father Lacombe feels very thankful for the generosity and large attendance of his parishioners.

NOMINATIONS

At Edmonton passed off very quietly. The only candidate nominated was Frank Oliver, proprietor of this paper, who has represented the Edmonton district for the past six years. He was declared duly elected by returning officer Robertson. Very few electors were present, as it was understood that there would be no contest.

At Fort Saskatchewan in the Victoria constituency, F. Fraser Times was elected by acclamation. At one time there promised to be a very hot and close contest. Robert Logan the well-known rancher of Beaver lake having announced himself as a candidate and made an energetic canvass. He finally however decided to withdraw on account of the requirements of his business. He certainly would have polled a large vote in the eastern part of the constituency. Mr. Times is a well-known resident of Fort Saskatchewan and one of the most enterprising men in the place. It is not too much to say that the present growth of the town is very largely due to his unbounded faith and untiring exertions.

At St. Albert Messrs A. Prince, who has represented that district for the past three years, and D. Maloney who opposed Mr. Prince at the former election were nominated.

ed. There is a certainty of a hot and a possibility of a close contest. The nomination proceedings were largely attended and both candidates spoke at great length during the afternoon.

At Red Deer F. E. Wilkins the late member for Red Deer, Leo Gaetz of Red Deer and Mr. Bannison of Innisfail were nominated. Mr. Wilkins was a useful and creditable member of the assembly during the past three years and the traffic bridge across the Red Deer river erected by the Northwest government is an evidence of his attention to the needs of the district. Mr. Gaetz is an old resident of Red Deer and the original owner of the town site. He has done a great deal to bring Red Deer prominently before the country and is a man of great energy and a fluent speaker.

In Calgary East the nominations are: S. J. Clarke, Jas. Bannerman, James Reilly, P. J. Nolan and Dr. Lindsay, all new men. In Calgary West, the nominations are: A. L. Sifton, Alex. Lucas, and Oswald Critchley, all new men.

In MacLeod, Haultain, chairman of executive committee, is re-elected by acclamation. In Lethbridge Magrath is re-elected by acclamation.

In Battleford Clinkskill the sitting member is opposed by Benj Prince.

In Prince Albert, West, J. L. Reid and Alex. Campbell were nominated, both new men.

In Prince Albert, East, J. F. Betts the sitting member is opposed by James Taylor who opposed him at last election.

In Mitchell (Duck Lake), Hillard Mitchell of the executive committee is re-elected by acclamation.

In Batoche C. E. Boucher the sitting member is opposed by Mr. Venne.

In Moose Jaw J. H. Ross ex-speaker the sitting member, is opposed by J. E. Annabel.

In Regina North, D. F. Jelly the sitting member is opposed by G. W. Brown.

In Regina South, Daniel Mowat the sitting member is opposed by J. W. Smith.

In Qu'Appelle South, G. S. Davidson the sitting member is opposed by Bulyea.

In Moosomin, J. R. Neff, of the executive committee, is opposed by McCallum.

In Cannington Page the sitting member is opposed by McConachie.

In Souris, Knowlton the sitting member is re-elected by acclamation.

In Salicoots, a new constituency the candidates are Eakin and Carlton.

The constituencies not heard from are Kinistino, Yorkton, North Qu'Appelle, Wolseley, Whitewood, Medicine Hat, Banff and High River a new constituency.

THE BALLOT.

The elections to be held on Wednesday next are the first Territorial elections to be held under the ballot system. As the ballot is something new in the Territories and as the system adopted is a new system a few words regarding it may not be out of place. There are a number of peculiar features, the most noticeable one being that instead of a printed ballot and a plain pencil being used a perfectly plain ballot paper and a colored pencil are used. Each candidate is designated by a certain color as well as by name and the ballots that are marked with the color of a candidate will be counted for that candidate no matter in what shape they may be marked. The idea is to get over the difficulty that exists in the case of an ordinary ballot with people who cannot read. In the Territories there is a large foreign population many of whom cannot read, and therefore cannot vote intelligently with a printed ballot. Under the new system, if a voter can distinguish colors he can cast a perfectly intelligent and secret vote. The pencils used in marking the ballots have the name of the candidate of whose color the pencil is, painted on it, so that the possibility of a mistake being made is reduced to the very lowest possible point. Ballots are not spoiled by being marked in any particular manner. If the ballot is a proper one it is counted for the candidate whose color it shows. At the same time a voter who marks his ballot intending to thereby disclose his identity is liable to severe punishment.

Another peculiar feature of this system is that under it no voters' list is prepared. Provision is made for challenging persons who apply to vote and for the subsequent trial of the right of the persons to have voted with the result of having ballots improperly cast thrown out, should the challenging scrutineer push the matter to that point. In the hands of competent scrutineers this provision should be a valuable one, in case of an attempt to run in illegal votes.

ADDRESS.

The following address from the Sons of Ireland of St. Albert, was read to Lord Aberdeen upon the occasion of his recent visit there:

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR EXCELLENCY.

The Sons of Ireland whose lot it is to dwell in this portion of the vast colonial Empire of Britain, beg to extend to your Excellency and Lady Aberdeen their most cordial welcome to Saint Albert. In welcoming your Excellency and the Countess of Aberdeen this day as our honored Governor General and gracious consort, our pleasure in receiving you is heightened as our memories recall the kindly rule of other days of our dear old mother land across the sea. Yet now, Canadians all, we in union with our French Canadian, Scottish and other fellow citizens beg to express to your Excellency our feeling of loyalty and devotion to her most Gracious Majesty our beloved Queen and to your Excellency her representative in the Dominion of Canada. With we hope, pardonable pride, we call the attention of your Excellency to the magnificent agricultural and ranching district of which this village is the centre, and to its unsurpassed fertility of soil and beauty of climate. To the never failing courage, often heroic, of our agricultural pioneers, merchants and mechanics in that extension of the northern frontier of settlement of our Dominion which is incidental to and inseparable from any varied avocations.

We most respectfully call your Excellency's attention also to that great unmeasured northland upon whose threshold we are now standing, to its wealth of forests, fisheries and mines whose undeveloped value can now be only conjectured.

The multitude which your Excellency and Lady Aberdeen see round about you to honor you, wish on this happy occasion to pay tribute to your venerable and beloved Bishop and his devoted clergy. Having done so much towards christianizing the far scattered peoples of this vast country, we hold them to have thus very largely assisted in ushering the light of modern civilization into the great lone land.

The cause of education owes much which it can never hope to repay to your Reverend Sisters of Charity. Their well-known methods of teaching give the very best results, and though the school system of our Territories is not so just as we could wish, yet we hope that as time goes on justice to all will be granted. In the cause of humanity, the poor, the fatherless and the otherwise unfortunate can best say as to what noble and unselfish work is being done by them.

In conclusion we heartily thank your Excellency and Lady Aberdeen for the great honor conferred upon us by your visit and asking Almighty Good to bless You and Her Excellency Lady Aberdeen and return you safely to your home.

A TRIP DOWN THE SASKATCHEWAN.

(The following is the composition which won first prize at the recent Edmonton exhibition. It is by Ralph Bellamy, aged 14 years.)

In July our party of four, consisting of Mr. S., Mr. M., Mr. C., and myself determined to spend our holidays in the Rocky mountains, where we thought we could have much pleasure, and make some discoveries. So we took the train at Toronto and went first to Banff, and after staying there a short time, set out on our journey with plenty of provisions and two Indian guides. Thus we proceeded, admiring everything we saw, and we often felt how insignificant we seemed to the mountains, which reared their majestic forms on either side. By the time it was necessary to think of returning we found ourselves up as far as Mount Hooker, a noble peak, about 16,000 feet high. Accordingly one night we sat down, and discussed upon the best route by which to go home, without retracing our steps. Suddenly Mr. M., who was of a somewhat romantic nature, exclaimed, "Let us go down the Saskatchewan." This was unanimously agreed upon, and after hunting, exploring and generally enjoying the scenery, we started. Of course we could not put canoes on the river immediately, on account of its smallness and even though it had been large enough the numerous falls and rapids would have proved too serious an obstacle. We kept along its banks, which are covered with great forests of large fir and other species of trees. At short intervals the main stream was joined by other small streamlets; and after about two weeks (for our travelling through the forest was necessarily slow) we came to a place where the river was sufficiently large to float a canoe, and as birch trees were numerous, we camped and employed our guides in making two canoes, after which we dismissed them and embarked.

Many animals were seen by us the principal being the grizzly bear, and when we landed for meals and at nights several buffalo tracks were visible. We shot one grizzly, whose meat was very acceptable, and his skin was also useful. Our larder was sometimes replenished by fish of which there are many varieties in this river, the most palatable being the salmon trout. Now we were coming into a more open country, where the fir trees were not so plentiful, and the poplar took its place. Hitherto we had beautiful weather, but one night a terrible thunderstorm came on accompanied by great sheets of rain. Some of the romance was taken out of Mr. M., by a thorough wetting, and the ardour for adventure in all of us was somewhat dampened. Neither was it improved for two more days for the rain still came down though not so heavily. We deemed it prudent to remain in camp; but set out on the third day and at length reached Edmonton, the chief settlement on the North Saskatchewan. Here we stopped for supplies and to see the town.

Edmonton is beautifully situated on the north side of the noble Saskatchewan, in the midst of a very productive country, where all kinds of grain and vegetables are cultivated with great success. The town is also favored by having extensive coal deposits, and coal mining is one of the chief industries. The population of this thriving town is about 1600, it has several fine buildings, and a few important industries. On the other side of the river and just opposite is South Edmonton a much smaller town and the two places are connected by three ferries. Taking everything into account, Edmonton has bright prospects, which it is to be hoped will be realized in the near future.

But we must go on. We went down the river very rapidly for the current was swift, and soon passed Clover Bar, at which place another ferry crosses the stream, and came to Fort Saskatchewan where we stayed for supper.

This town is about twenty miles from Edmonton and like it, has a good farming country all round. Although small it is rapidly growing and boasts the headquarters of the N. W. M. P. In the evening we proceeded and camped that night where the Sturgeon joins the Saskatchewan. Next morning we were up early and drifted leisurely down and as night came on again, camped. We had sometimes been bothered by mosquitoes but this night was particularly bad, and we did not enjoy the least bit of sleep. About noon the next day we arrived at Victoria, a Hudson's Bay post, and expecting to see no other white settlement until Battleford was reached we remained over night. The land in this vicinity is undulating but well adapted to agriculture.

Resuming our journey, we passed the ruins of Fort Pitt, a Hudson's Bay post, that was deserted after the uprising of 1885. The surface here is quite hilly, and the soil is sandy. However a good harvest might be expected if there was plenty of rain.

From Fort Pitt to Battleford the river widens, the current slows and many islands occur. Sandbanks also exist and as they are continually shifting, they give rise to much trouble in navigation.

Battleford is situated where the Battle river joins the Saskatchewan, in a valley, and the large town is divided into two parts by the former river. On the left hand side, conspicuous among the other buildings is the headquarters of a division of the N. W. M. P. The greater portion of the business is transacted in the town on the right hand side. This town was once the capital of the Territories.

On the afternoon of the second day after leaving Battleford we came to Carlton, another Hudson's Bay fort. This, like Fort Pitt, was a central place of the rebellion of '85; but unlike Pitt was not abandoned; but it has made little progress.

The following day found us at Prince Albert one of the oldest, and until late years, since the rapid settling of the Edmonton district, the largest settled place in the Northwest. The town is beautifully situated on the south bank; but is very much scattered being at least three miles long. Here we procured larger boats, and on laying in as large a stock of provisions as we could conveniently carry, we engaged a guide and departed. Soon we heard a loud roaring noise, which was the sound of the Cole rapids our guide informed us. He advised us to be very cautious, as they were extremely dangerous, and to keep the second boat a little behind the first, but following in the same course as the first in which he should ride, and as he knew the way, the rocks would be avoided. The Cole rapids extend about ten miles, and consist of several distinct rapids, with intervals of one mile between them; but all these we passed safely, being only drenched by the spray. The Hudson's Bay steamers ascend the rapids by means of a capstan, attached by a cable to trees along the bank; and it takes the steamer four days to go from the confluence of the north and south branches of the Saskatchewan to Prince Albert, a distance of about twenty-five miles.

Passing the confluence of the two branches which unite to form a very large stream, and the current being very swift, we made rapid progress, and in the evening landed at Fort a la Corne, a Hudson's Bay post, surrounded by forests.

We set out again next morning hoping to reach Grand Rapids in five days. It is a noticeable fact, while going along, that from the confluence of the branches the banks become lower and the river widens. At noon we dined on one of the numerous islands, and while eating, our guide said we would find much difficulty at this point in discovering a dry place on which to camp, at least in the coming night. His prediction was verified, but to a greater extent than he expected. We reached a partially submerged island in the evening, but not being able to find a dry spot, moved our boats and slept in them. In the morning we arose to stretch our cramped limbs and to eat a cold breakfast after which we proceeded. On running the Tobin rapids, we noticed a hill and as it was about noon we landed to stretch ourselves again and to have a warm meal. It was well we did so; for coming to a place where the river divided our guide carelessly took the wrong branch, and even after he had discovered his mistake he kept on thinking he would find the main channel all right. But he was a reckless fellow, and after making many futile efforts to regain our right course he was as completely lost as ourselves.

We stopped and consulted what to do. The guide climbed a tall tree; and on coming down informed us that he had discovered a land-mark which would lead us into the right way again. Accordingly we rowed in the direction he pointed out but we searched in vain and it now being late we looked for a place to camp. About half a mile off we saw what appeared to be a dry island, but we were utterly disgusted when we found a mass of floating timber and aquatic plants. However, we moored our boats there and spent the night. If the mosquitoes had been bad before they were now unbearable, and the night was spent in fighting the blood-thirsty insects and in cursing the guide.

The next morning we quitted this place as early as possible and much against our muddled guide's protest, rowed up stream. This was hard work and another miserable night was spent, but about noon on the morrow we joyfully beheld the point where we had gone wrong. Again we were forced to partake of a cold meal after which we proceeded in somewhat better spirits. Towards evening we noticed a dry looking place, and great was our joy, when we found we were not deceived. Here we spent the most comfortable night for a long time, and next day, our guide being rendered careful by past experience, he brought us safely to Pas Mission a Hudson's Bay fort, and on the evening of the following day we reached an Indian village. This village is located at the upper Cedar Lake. Down the left shore of this lake we coasted and on turning a point entered the bed of the river, and the evening found us at Grand Rapids; after running many rapids, the most dangerous of which was the Demi-charge. At Grand Rapids we rested for a week. At the end of this period we walked along the tramway beside the rapids till we came to a wharf, and embarked on a steamer by which we reached Lake Winnipeg, having completed a dangerous journey of about 1500 miles. After enjoying the comforts of the steamer for a few days, we often thought that in our little open boats we had more of a pleasant exertion than of a pleasant excursion; and each one took to himself the saying of Touch in "As you like it."

Ros. "Well, this is the Forest of Arden."

Touch. "Ay, now, I am in Arden, the more fool I; When I was at home I was in a better place; but travelers must be content."

TO THE ELECTORS OF EDMONTON.

GENTLEMEN.

Having been elected to represent the district of Edmonton in the Northwest assembly during its next term I desire to express my thanks for the honor, and in return will do all that I can to discharge fairly and worthily the duties devolving upon me as your representative.

Respectfully Yours

The price realized on the British market for the first shipment of North-west sheep sent there—1,500 head—was four shillings per stone, dressed, or about 7c per pound.

Defaulter Neale will be extradited and will stand his trial at Regina, while defaulter Campbell, of Whitewood, after a detention of about two weeks in Chicago, has been liberated.

Prof. Robertson passed through the city from the east Tuesday evening. He failed to find Supt. Whyte in the city, and so he decided to go west and have a conference with him on the matter of dairy stations about to be established. He had no definite plans as to where they would be located and would tour the province for suitable places. He was accompanied by Mr. N. Boyd, M.P.

Mr. M. Bueglass, of Bright, Ont., who took up land in the Edmonton district this season, is in the city en route home to spend the winter. Speaking of the great coal deposits in the Edmonton country, Mr. Bueglass said that good coal was obtained for $1.50 a ton delivered, and if a farmer chose to dig it himself he could cart it off for fifty cents a load.—Free Press.
